LIFE SAVED BY HUSBAND'S BLOOD

Mrs. Luke Lea of Tennessee Snatched From the Grave by Senator's Sacrifice

THE WOMAN'S LIFE WAS EBBING AWAY

Lacked the Vitality to Recover From Operation—Husband Insisted on Transfusion From His Own Veins—Patient Responds to the Treatment and Will Recover—Senator Falls in a Faint After the Operation.

Washington, June 19.—To save the life of his stricken wife, United States Senator Luke Lea of Tennessee sacrificed a quart of his blood at Georgetown hospital yesterday.

Recovery Seems Assured.

Tonight Mrs. Lea's recovery, which had almost been abandoned, is practically assured, the anxious youngest son of the senator, who has been the bedside of his wife, recuperating.

Her Condition Was Alarming.

Mrs. Lea's condition, which had been serious for some time, became alarming Sunday after an operation the day before. Her strength, because of lack of blood, was gone and her vitality was fast ebbing.

Husband Insisted on Transfusion.

Upon learning of her condition, Senator Lea demanded that a transfusion operation be performed and prepared at once to submit to the ordeal. Attending physicians and surgeons made arrangements immediately, and the operation which followed was declared to have been very successful.

Sacrifice Saved Wife's Life.

Senator Lea stood the operation well, though it left him so weak that for hours he could not stand alone, but gratification of duty and the knowledge that he had upon his wife was inexhaustible. Surgeons assured him that with the transfusion, his wife's life was saved.

Mrs. Lea Still Very Weak.

It will be two or three days before Mrs. Lea is altogether out of danger.

At present her symptoms are favorable, although she is still very weak. It is expected that Senator Lea will be able to leave his room in a few days.

No Time to Make Tests.

A prime factor in transfusion operations is that the bloods of the patients be fusible, so that tests were hastily undertaken when Senator Lea insisted on his sacrifice. But before analysis was complete, the surgeons, Drs. H. C. Frey and George Tully Vaughan, fearing that death might be averted, they decided to try the operation, anyway.

Their Bloods Fusible.

However, just as the senator's arm had been bared and a tube had been inserted in an artery, word came that the bloods of the husband and wife were fusible.

Patient Responded from First.

The transfusion lasted about an hour and a half. The patient responded to the treatment from the first. Meanwhile, Senator Lea, who had been unconscious, began to show signs of life.

Senator Fall in a Faint.

But the doctors, realizing the weakening effects of a transfusion on the donor, eventually stanching the flow. After the operation the senator fell into a faint. He was immediately put to bed, but today with the assistance of a friend he was able to walk to his wife's bedside.

Gruesome Finds

On Maine's Deck

HUMAN FRAGMENTS PICKED UP BY SEARCHERS.

TWO FOREARMS AND A FOOT

Remains Placed Aboard a Collier to Be Shipped North—No Probability That They Will Ever Be Identified.

Havana, June 19.—With the first discovery this morning of some poor human remains, the work of exploring the hull of the Maine for the primary purpose of recovering and giving honorable sepulchre to the remains of her gallant crew was at last begun, after many weary months of preliminary work.

Bones of Right Foot and a Forearm. While workers were clearing the spar deck between the after and engine room superstructure in the immediate vicinity of the after port side turret, they found bones of a right foot enclosed in the ragged remnant of a shoe, and a forearm. The hand was missing.

Another Forearm Found. Soon after this they came upon the bones of another forearm. All were blackened, possibly from the action of fire, and deeply encrusted with a coral growth.

No Hope of Identification. None of the remains offered hope of identification, except that the shoe suggested that the wearer probably was either an officer, a mess attendant or a member of the marine guard. The blue jackets in tropical service habitually go barefoot.

Remains Placed on Collier. Further exploration of that portion of the ship where the relics were found did not reveal anything which would assist in the identification. The remains were reverently placed in receptacles on board the United States collier.

A Correll Naval Found. A search of the spar deck and the officers' quarters superstructure resulted in the discovery of a paper-covered novel, "Wormwood," by Marie Corelli, in which the name of the title page was illegible.

Other Articles Discovered. A pair of binoculars, much corroded, two raincoats, two rubber door mats, a barrel of bottled mineral water, a quantity of porcelain belonging to the captain and the warm room moses and a number of pencils and rubber bands were also discovered.

Senators in Open Revolt

REPUBLICANS FROM NORTHWEST MAKE THREATS.

OPPOSED TO RECIPROCITY

If Bill Is Passed, Will Join Democrats in Lowering Duties on Manufactured Products—Radical Statements.

Washington, June 19.—Republican opposition to the Canadian reciprocity bill in the senate reached the stage of open revolt today.

Led by Dixon of Montana. Led by Senator Dixon of Montana, the republican opponents of the agreement declared that if the bill passed many republicans would join the democrats in an effort to lower the duties on all manufactured products.

Threat of Retaliation. "When the cornerstone is pulled out of the system of protective tariff," said Senator Dixon, "the farmer's products will be thrown on the market, while his purchases continue to be protected, there are many good protectionists in the republican ranks here who will vote to have the duties pulled down on iron and steel, chemicals, cotton and many other things."

May Revive Whole Subject of Tariff. Other northwestern republicans, signified by their approval of the Montana senators' words that the passage of the reciprocity bill, which is now in the senate, will have a majority of the votes in the senate, will be accompanied by a near unanimous vote to revive the whole subject of the tariff.

Make One Killing of It. "We want to make one killing," said Senator Crawford of South Dakota, "and that is to kill the reciprocity bill."

Time for a New Tack. "I want to deal with this matter in its entirety," he said, "and I am sure that if Pennsylvania, Mississippi and Missouri are added to the ranks of the tariff reformers, it is time for the rest of the country to strike a single arrow raised in the northwest."

Make Whole New Tariff Law. "If you can get enough senators on that side with you," returned Senator Bailey of Texas, "we will take one of these bills coming over from the house and make a whole new tariff law out of it."
